

Celebrant Foundation & Institute's 2019-2020 Programs in Celebrancy Studies to Become a Certified Life-Cycle Celebrant®

Thank you for your interest in becoming a certified Life-Cycle Celebrant®!

The Celebrant Foundation & Institute is a nonprofit educational organization dedicated to training Celebrants worldwide and promoting the use of ceremony to mark the milestones and transitions in the lives of individuals, families, communities, and organizations. Celebrants are professional modern-day officiants who create personalized ceremonies to meet their clients' needs. The ideal of Celebrancy is that the client's beliefs and values are paramount, and that the beliefs of the Celebrant are immaterial in the process of ceremony creation. As a Celebrant, you will collaborate with your clients to help them realize their vision for their ceremony, giving them final approval over the ceremony script. No two Celebrant ceremonies are alike.

Celebrants officiate at ceremonies for all types of life events...for babies and adoptions, coming of age, weddings, commitment ceremonies, funerals, and memorials. Celebrants also develop ceremonies to enrich daily life, and for seasonal, community, corporate, and civic events. The opportunities to use ceremony to create connections among families, communities, and couples, whether for healing or celebration, are as varied as our Celebrants and the individuals we work with.

Celebrants serve an essential need today, and the expansion of the Celebrant movement here in the United State and Canada is a testament to their growing popularity. In 2017 New Jersey became the first state in the US to include civil wedding celebrants in its Marriage Act and CF&I is advocating for other states to follow. It makes sense. Recent Pew Studies reveal that an increasing number of people aren't connected to a specific religion and many are not religious at all, but still may consider themselves spiritual or are seeking opportunities to include meaningful ceremony in their lives. And interfaith and multicultural families are now the very fabric of our society. Life-Cycle Celebrants® offer an alternative. They give people of all backgrounds, traditions, cultures and faiths, and even people who are Humanist, agnostic or atheist the opportunity to create ceremonies that best reflect the array of trials, tribulations and triumphs that we all experience as humans throughout our lives.

Being a Certified Life-Cycle Celebrant is a viable and satisfying profession. Our alumni enjoy their part-time or fulltime practice, along with the freedom to be their own boss and set their own schedule as a Celebrant. Celebrants earn anywhere from $500 - $1500 per ceremony and many officiate between 20 and 140 ceremonies a year. Our education program includes a robust and relevant marketing component to assist students to launch and establish themselves as successful Life-Cycle Celebrants® and an advanced marketing and business organizational course for students ready to launch their own business. Parade Magazine, Money Magazine and CNN have also reported Celebrants to be a great career for job changers and encore career baby boomers as they approach retirement.

In this informational pamphlet, you will find an overview of our Life-Cycle Celebrant® training program, and the application process. Please contact me if you would like further information about our programs in Celebrancy Studies. We look forward to taking this life-changing journey together toward your new viable career as a Life-Cycle Celebrant®.

What is a Life-Cycle Celebrant®?

Life-Cycle Celebrants certified by the Celebrant Foundation & Institute are trained professionals who believe in the power and effectiveness of ceremony and ritual to guide us through life's changes and milestone moments. The Life-Cycle Celebrant's mission is to create a ceremony that reflects a client's beliefs, philosophy of life, and personality. The Celebrant comes to the table with no agenda; no preconceived notion of what the ceremony should or must look like. Instead, through careful interviewing and a thoughtful process, the Celebrant elicits what is meaningful for each client. After a thorough client interview, we write, rewrite, rehearse, and perform ceremonies.

Life-Cycle Celebrants come from all walks of life and a college degree is not a prerequisite. We are looking for highly-motivated individuals who have an interest in ceremony and ritual, public speaking experience, excellent writing abilities, organizational skills, computer proficiency, and a love of the arts and working with people. Foreign languages are a plus. Above all, the Celebrant candidate must be committed to the Life-Cycle Celebrant® philosophy: Creating personalized ceremonies for people of all beliefs and value systems.

Why Become a Life-Cycle Celebrant Certified by the Celebrant Institute?

We are proud that our enriching curriculum is considered the "Gold Standard of Study in Celebrancy." But don't take it from us...hear what our graduates have to say about our program:

"Last night I finished reading the last of the documents for my Weddings course, and when I got to the end, I was filled with an overwhelming sense of gratitude. All I could think was, "Wow! These people sure are generous!" I can't believe how much all the celebrants who've gone before me have shared—not only scripts of their ceremonies, but their organizing tips, their brochures and marketing tips, and their fashion advice! It would take me YEARS to accumulate this much wisdom. I feel very loved and supported – you so want me to succeed! Deciding to become certified through the Celebrant Foundation and Institute is decidedly one of the best investments I've ever made!" ~ Class of 2016 graduate

"It exceeded my expectations and I am grateful for the experience. It has expanded my understanding of ritual and ceremony and the role they can play in our individual, family and community lives to enhance our relationships and connections to one another, as well as increase our self-awareness." ~ Class of 2009 graduate

"I'm not only extremely excited to now be a practicing Celebrant, but incredibly CONFIDENT in my vocation – and it's because of the support of my classmates, instructor and the Celebrant Foundation. I honestly cannot thank you enough. I'm incredibly pleased with my investment." ~ Class of 2008 graduate

We love this course because it’s built around the universal talents and skills that all Celebrants already have. This course will empower you and invigorate you.
